

MANY CLUBS WORK FOR PARTY TICKET

Organizations Spring Up All Over State in Behalf of Wilson.

BYRD ANNOUNCES HIS ROLL

Activity in Fourth District Will Begin Now Fight There Is Over.

Richard Evelyn Byrd, organizer of Democratic clubs for the national committee, announces the following clubs in good running order. There may be other organizations not reported to him. He has had a part in the formation of many.

Because of the contest between Watson and Turnbull in the Fourth District the organization of clubs there has been deferred. Many will be added within the next ten days.

Wilson Club of Altaville.
W. S. Corbin, president; O. K. McCarthys, vice-president; E. A. Smith, vice-president; E. Candiff, vice-president; H. B. Shawen, vice-president; P. K. Arthur, secretary; R. L. Clanton, treasurer—all of Altaville.

Wilson Club of Farmville.
S. W. Watkins, president; J. T. Thompson, vice-president; C. B. Cunningham, secretary and treasurer—all of Farmville.

Wilson Club of West Point.
J. L. Bland, president; Dr. L. S. Folkes, first vice-president; Dr. B. B. Bagby, second vice-president; R. B. Ware, third vice-president; W. Clyde Gouldman, secretary; W. H. Bell, treasurer—all of West Point.

Wilson Club of Danville.
Eugene Withers, president; Charles E. Hughes, secretary—all of Danville.

Wilson Club of Rocky Mount.
G. W. B. Hale, president; P. H. Dillard, vice-president; W. A. Belcher, treasurer; W. E. Beverly, secretary—all of Rocky Mount.

Wilson Club of Chase City.
R. L. Jeffries, president; G. D. Reynolds, secretary; W. J. Gregory, treasurer—all of Chase City.

Wilson Club of Stuart.
J. M. Hooker, president; J. W. Hyton, vice-president; H. L. Hooker, secretary; Robert N. Clark, treasurer—all of Stuart.

Wilson-Marshall-Montague Club of Middleburg.
E. C. Nichols, president; J. W. Jeffries, vice-president; William G. Owens, secretary; Selwyn Hancock, treasurer; J. J. Jett, sergeant-at-arms—all of Middleburg.

Wilson Club of New Market.
F. H. Morehead, chairman; Dr. C. O. Miller, first vice-president; M. A. Price, second vice-president; Ambrose I. Henkel, secretary; C. N. Hoover, treasurer—all of New Market.

Wilson Club of Lunenburg County.
Thomas W. O'Neil, president; Kenbridge, Dr. E. Kendig, secretary and treasurer; Victoria; George E. Smith, vice-president; Rehoboth, Rehoboth District; W. E. Nelson, vice-president; Lunenburg, Lewiston District; N. S. Turnbull, Jr., vice-president; Victoria, Plymouth District; S. H. Love, vice-president; Kenbridge, Brown's Store District; J. T. Noble, vice-president; Kinderwood, Lockwood District.

Wilson-Marshall-Veteran Club of Bristol.
H. G. Lavender, president; Dr. George E. Wiley, vice-president; George M. Warren, secretary—all of Bristol.

Wilson Club of Culpeper.
S. M. Newhouse, president; A. B. Cline, secretary—all of Culpeper.

Wilson Club of Culpeper County.
Dr. Leo Printz, president; Jefferson, Colonel Grenville Gaines, president, Warrenton, Va.

Wilson Club of Fredericksburg.
C. O'Connor, president; J. G. King, vice-president; J. R. Rawlins, vice-president; Joseph M. Goldsmith, vice-president; O. M. Armstrong, vice-president; Lawrence Perry, vice-president; W. S. Embrey, vice-president; C. R. Howard, secretary; Samuel Woodbridge, treasurer—all of Fredericksburg.

Wilson Club of Williamsburg.
Frank Arnsfeldt, president; M. T. Shipman, secretary—all of Williamsburg.

Wilson Club of Roanoke.
Aylett R. Coleman, president; James

JUST AS SIMPLE AS BLACK AND WHITE—

Simply come to the right store and get the right Overcoat.

This week a special line of dark ones—Oxfords; the new beautiful blues, the rich grays, rough fabrics that lead this season and some novel patterns for the brave ones who don't shy at newness.

Prices, $15 to $50.

All made in our New York workrooms under our own eagle eye, and that's why we gladly guarantee them.

C. H. Perry

A. Bear, vice-president; John M. Miles, secretary and treasurer, Roanoke.

Wilson Club of Newport News.
W. E. Hoffman, secretary; J. M. Curtis, president; R. W. Perkins, treasurer, Newport News.

Wilson Club of Norfolk County.
W. H. Rodman, president; S. B. Johnson, vice-president; C. G. Dennis, secretary; S. E. Wiley, treasurer, Port Norfolk.

Wilson Club of Pocahontas.
John Roberts, president, Pocahontas.

Wilson Club of Tazewell.
John S. Bottimore, president, Tazewell.

Wilson-Ayers Club of Gate City.
C. P. Quillen, president; P. S. Lane, vice-president; Robert Benton, vice-president; H. S. Kane, vice-president; W. A. S. Lee, secretary and treasurer; M. M. Starnes, sergeant-at-arms, Gate City.

Wilson Club of Suffolk.
Colonel R. L. Haver, president; C. L. Lewis, secretary—all of Suffolk.

Wilson Club of Harrisonburg.
T. L. Williamson, president; Harry M. Strickler, secretary; John E. Altfer, treasurer—all of Harrisonburg.

Wilson Club of Bridgeport.
L. V. Miller, president; D. C. Graham, first vice-president; C. B. Kiser, second vice-president; J. S. McLeod, third vice-president; John S. Cook, secretary; Herbert Sipe, treasurer—all of Bridgeport.

Wilson Club of Fincastle.
Charles E. Jones, chairman; M. W. Terrell, secretary—all of Fincastle.

Wilson Club of Newmarket.
D. W. Perkins, president; D. W. Perkins, first vice-president; T. E. Chambers, second vice-president; M. Dillard, secretary and treasurer; W. R. Jones, Captain J. M. Harris, B. Cobb, G. L. Bradshaw, executive committee—all of Blackstone.

Wilson Club of Albemarle County.
W. A. Rinehart, president; Covington; D. J. Callaghan, first vice-president; Sweet Chalybeate, H. H. Parker, second vice-president; Covington; J. A. Ballard, third vice-president; Covington; Thomas R. McCalib, secretary; Covington; A. C. Sizer, treasurer, Covington.

Wilson-Marshall Club of Charlottesville.
J. H. Lindsay, president; W. R. Duke, vice-president; W. M. Lile, vice-president; B. Lee Hawkins, secretary; T. P. Peyton, treasurer—all of Charlottesville.

Wilson Club of Buchanan.
W. R. Allen, president; C. L. Wilson, secretary; E. A. Ransom, treasurer; A. W. Harvey, Dr. E. W. Dood—all of Buchanan.

Wilson Club of Portsmouth.
C. B. Camper, president; M. A. Woodson, secretary; C. B. Camper, treasurer—all of Portsmouth.

Wilson Club of Petersburg.
W. Clark Moore, president; J. Davis Reed, W. L. Bennett, J. Edward Johnson, C. N. Markham, F. T. Briggs, W. H. Culpeper, Harry C. Hall, vice-presidents; S. Chelburne Brown, secretary—all of Petersburg.

IT'S THE LITTLE THINGS THAT COUNT

Count on us for having every detail of our boys' clothes as carefully worked out as in suits for men.

As much care taken in fitting your boy with a suit at $8 as if we were selling a $40 suit to his father.

This week we start with the fall goods all in.

Suits, $8.50 to $14.

Coats and Reefers, $8.50 to $15.

Everything the boy wears from Caps to Shoes.

C. H. Perry

retary and treasurer—all of Portsmouth.

Wilson Club of Fairfax County.
Paca Oberlin, secretary, Herndon.

Wilson Club of Orange.
George L. Browning, secretary, Orange.

Wilson Club of Louisa.
George V. Cameron, president; P. B. Porter, secretary and treasurer; J. P. Donnelly, assistant to president—all of Louisa.

Wilson Club of Staunton.
Peyton Cochran, president; H. H. Wray, vice-president; Charles M. East, treasurer; R. D. Halslip, secretary—all of Staunton.

Wilson Club of Luray.
Vernon H. Ford, president; J. B. Sibert, first vice-president; Colonel R. F. Leedy, second vice-president; Captain R. S. Parks, third vice-president; Robert W. Young, fourth vice-president; W. M. Rosser, fifth vice-president; J. Y. Menefree, sixth vice-president; Lee Long, seventh vice-president; J. A. Roller, secretary; J. B. Martin, treasurer—all of Luray.

Wilson Club of Shenandoah.
Herbert C. Bickers, president; W. S. Huddle, secretary; George W. Kite, treasurer—all of Shenandoah.

Wilson-Marshall-Montague Club of Jefferson Ward.
John J. Blake, president; Horace A. Hawkins, secretary; John R. Charlton, treasurer—all of Richmond.

Wilson Club of Richmond.
John J. Blake, president; Horace A. Hawkins, secretary; John R. Charlton, treasurer—all of Richmond.

GRAND JURY REPORT CREATES SENSATION

Allegations Concerning Condition of Convict Camp Will Be Probed.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Raleigh, N. C., September 28.—A mild sensation was created here today when the Wake County grand jury reported the convict camp under the supervision of J. M. Nipper as in bad sanitary condition and recommended that an investigation be made of the report that Dan Gallagher, a convict, was whipped a few hours before he died August 19. Judge Ferguson did not discharge the grand jury but ordered the members to report back Monday and probe the affair.

Dr. Bryant Harrison, the wealthy Wake County farmer who pleaded guilty of assaulting Rev. C. R. Sorrell with a deadly weapon, was made happy to-day when Judge Ferguson ordered the two months jail sentence stricken out. This was done on the statement of a physician that the incarceration of his husband would seriously affect the wife, who is suffering with heart trouble.

The Corporation Commission to-day ordered the Southern Railway Company to erect suitable waiting rooms in the town of Mount Airy, this to be commensurate with the importance of the city and adequate for the public. Plans will have to be submitted to the commission and one of two sites will be selected.

Though 42,000,000 pounds short of the year before the grand total of 115,543,470 pounds of leaf tobacco was sold on the North Carolina markets for the year ending August 1, according to statistics gathered by the State Department of Agriculture and made public to-day. Winston-Salem led all other markets by 13,000,000 pounds, Wilson and Greenville coming next with nearly 9,000,000 pounds. Twenty-six markets sold from 1,000,000 to 20,000,000 pounds, among these being Greenville, Oxford, Kingston, Roxboro, Durham, Henderson, Rocky Mount and Hatteras, which sold more than 5,000,000.

A charter was issued to-day to the Home Mission Board of the Southern Christian convention, incorporated, of Elton College. The corporation has no capital stock. The incorporators are J. E. West, Suffolk, Va.; J. O. Atkinson, Elton College; J. W. H. W. Burlington; K. M. B. Dickenson, of Greensboro; W. E. Mann, H. H. Parker and M. G. Russell, of Covington, and Captain R. F. Leedy, of Luray.

The fees, the red lights, roped candidates, decorated automobiles and thronged streets made Harrisonburg a merry town last night. The visitors left for Richmond over the Baltimore and Ohio and Chesapeake and Ohio to-day.

Members of Acca Temple, Richmond, visit Harrisonburg.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Harrisonburg, Va., September 28.—Twenty-five men were initiated by the Shriner here last night. The nobles of Acca Temple, Richmond, arrived in the afternoon, and after a banquet given by the women of the Rockingham Hospital Ladies' Auxiliary and a parade initiated the following candidates: L. T. Flick, A. H. Hamaker, C. L. Dunder, G. R. Roddin, D. Wampler, E. M. H. Harrisonburg; Charles R. Lacy and C. W. Carter, of Charlottesville; J. L. Cooper, D. M. Swank and W. E. Cooper, of Winchester; R. M. Hoffman, of Toms Brook; F. L. Oliver, W. H. Hall and R. E. Allen, of Staunton; E. B. Harrell, Jr., of Orange; E. W. Lyle, of Alexandria; W. A. Carr, of Stratford; W. E. Dickenson, of Greensboro; W. E. Mann, H. H. Parker and M. G. Russell, of Covington, and Captain R. F. Leedy, of Luray.

The fees, the red lights, roped candidates, decorated automobiles and thronged streets made Harrisonburg a merry town last night. The visitors left for Richmond over the Baltimore and Ohio and Chesapeake and Ohio to-day.

Members of Acca Temple, Richmond, visit Harrisonburg.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Harrisonburg, Va., September 28.—Twenty-five men were initiated by the Shriner here last night. The nobles of Acca Temple, Richmond, arrived in the afternoon, and after a banquet given by the women of the Rockingham Hospital Ladies' Auxiliary and a parade initiated the following candidates: L. T. Flick, A. H. Hamaker, C. L. Dunder, G. R. Roddin, D. Wampler, E. M. H. Harrisonburg; Charles R. Lacy and C. W. Carter, of Charlottesville; J. L. Cooper, D. M. Swank and W. E. Cooper, of Winchester; R. M. Hoffman, of Toms Brook; F. L. Oliver, W. H. Hall and R. E. Allen, of Staunton; E. B. Harrell, Jr., of Orange; E. W. Lyle, of Alexandria; W. A. Carr, of Stratford; W. E. Dickenson, of Greensboro; W. E. Mann, H. H. Parker and M. G. Russell, of Covington, and Captain R. F. Leedy, of Luray.

The fees, the red lights, roped candidates, decorated automobiles and thronged streets made Harrisonburg a merry town last night. The visitors left for Richmond over the Baltimore and Ohio and Chesapeake and Ohio to-day.

Members of Acca Temple, Richmond, visit Harrisonburg.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Harrisonburg, Va., September 28.—Twenty-five men were initiated by the Shriner here last night. The nobles of Acca Temple, Richmond, arrived in the afternoon, and after a banquet given by the women of the Rockingham Hospital Ladies' Auxiliary and a parade initiated the following candidates: L. T. Flick, A. H. Hamaker, C. L. Dunder, G. R. Roddin, D. Wampler, E. M. H. Harrisonburg; Charles R. Lacy and C. W. Carter, of Charlottesville; J. L. Cooper, D. M. Swank and W. E. Cooper, of Winchester; R. M. Hoffman, of Toms Brook; F. L. Oliver, W. H. Hall and R. E. Allen, of Staunton; E. B. Harrell, Jr., of Orange; E. W. Lyle, of Alexandria; W. A. Carr, of Stratford; W. E. Dickenson, of Greensboro; W. E. Mann, H. H. Parker and M. G. Russell, of Covington, and Captain R. F. Leedy, of Luray.

The fees, the red lights, roped candidates, decorated automobiles and thronged streets made Harrisonburg a merry town last night. The visitors left for Richmond over the Baltimore and Ohio and Chesapeake and Ohio to-day.

Members of Acca Temple, Richmond, visit Harrisonburg.

FRANCE IS FILLED WITH CONFIDENCE

Never Before Have the Nation's Ideas Been So Jingoistic.

PATRIOTISM REAWAKENING

Country Seeking to Strengthen Bonds Which Unite It to Russia.

[Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch.] Paris, September 28.—The principal event of the week was the end of the great manoeuvres to which the presence of the Grand Duke Nicholas gave special significance. The generalissimo of the Russian army's journey, occurring after M. Poincaré's visit to St. Petersburg, testified to the fact that France is seeking to consolidate the bonds which unite it to Russia.

The magnificent flights accomplished by the military aviators open new horizons in a future war. Now it is assured that aeroplanes can rise beyond reach of bullets. The recent exploits of Carros and Legagneux in passing 5,000 meters are the guarantee. The grand duke did not seek to conceal his opinion of the influence which the manibris must have on the destiny of battle.

These facts fill one with confidence, and it is added that following his visit to Balmoral, where King George is his host, M. Sazonoff, the Russian foreign secretary, who will have exchanged with Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign minister, his views on various subjects, is to come to Paris to consult M. Poincaré, the Premier.

This perspective is well calculated to attract at a moment when the nation's patriotic spirit is reawakening. Never have France's ideas been so jingoistic, and the inauguration of a monument to Victor Hugo at Waterloo, the heroic conduct of General Lyautey's troops in Morocco finds an enthusiastic echo in the people's hearts.

All this explains the favor amongst nations with which the decision of M. Giusthau, the Minister of Education, meets in Paris because they were created with an antipatriotic program.

There results from these considerations a kind of quietude, which is only troubled by criminals' fancies. Paris, after the exciting capture of the tragic bandits, believed she had finished their reign, but the recent arrest of three criminals near Orleans and the audacious murder of a railroad employee, the exploits of automobile burglars and the discovery that organized bands, armed with revolvers and Winchester, were manufacturing bombs and false coins, have renewed its fears, and while admiring preparations which guarantee defense abroad, France must be busy for protection at home against the invasion of Apache.

The bad weather put a premature end to the seaside season. Now is the time for the Chateaux and the season at Venice and Biarritz, where, favored by beautiful sunshine, all the aristocracies are meeting. The death of King Alfonso's sister puts Spanish society, which is numerous at Biarritz, in mourning.

It is held that the Czar's children will possibly winter at Biarritz. Since the death of King Edward VII, Biarritz has lost the distinction which all resorts need—an imperial or royal godparent, to keep it in fashion.

The new structure, although far from complete, has advanced far enough to permit services to be held. The occupation of the church will not interfere with the work which remains to be done. The Sunday school rooms have been finished for some time and the main auditorium lacks only the finishing touch of the decorator.

The building, which will be vacated to-night, is the third oldest Episcopal church in the city. The corner-stone was laid April 1, 1911. It was consecrated in 1859 by Rt. Rev. Richard Channing Moore, of New York, third bishop of Virginia. The church was originally planned to take care of the overflow from Monumental Church, which had become too small to care for the growing congregation. The present rector has been in charge since 1894.

The new structure, although far from complete, has advanced far enough to permit services to be held. The occupation of the church will not interfere with the work which remains to be done. The Sunday school rooms have been finished for some time and the main auditorium lacks only the finishing touch of the decorator.

The building, which will be vacated to-night, is the third oldest Episcopal church in the city. The corner-stone was laid April 1, 1911. It was consecrated in 1859 by Rt. Rev. Richard Channing Moore, of New York, third bishop of Virginia. The church was originally planned to take care of the overflow from Monumental Church, which had become too small to care for the growing congregation. The present rector has been in charge since 1894.

The new structure, although far from complete, has advanced far enough to permit services to be held. The occupation of the church will not interfere with the work which remains to be done. The Sunday school rooms have been finished for some time and the main auditorium lacks only the finishing touch of the decorator.

The building, which will be vacated to-night, is the third oldest Episcopal church in the city. The corner-stone was laid April 1, 1911. It was consecrated in 1859 by Rt. Rev. Richard Channing Moore, of New York, third bishop of Virginia. The church was originally planned to take care of the overflow from Monumental Church, which had become too small to care for the growing congregation. The present rector has been in charge since 1894.

The new structure, although far from complete, has advanced far enough to permit services to be held. The occupation of the church will not interfere with the work which remains to be done. The Sunday school rooms have been finished for some time and the main auditorium lacks only the finishing touch of the decorator.

The building, which will be vacated to-night, is the third oldest Episcopal church in the city. The corner-stone was laid April 1, 1911. It was consecrated in 1859 by Rt. Rev. Richard Channing Moore, of New York, third bishop of Virginia. The church was originally planned to take care of the overflow from Monumental Church, which had become too small to care for the growing congregation. The present rector has been in charge since 1894.

The new structure, although far from complete, has advanced far enough to permit services to be held. The occupation of the church will not interfere with the work which remains to be done. The Sunday school rooms have been finished for some time and the main auditorium lacks only the finishing touch of the decorator.

The building, which will be vacated to-night, is the third oldest Episcopal church in the city. The corner-stone was laid April 1, 1911. It was consecrated in 1859 by Rt. Rev. Richard Channing Moore, of New York, third bishop of Virginia. The church was originally planned to take care of the overflow from Monumental Church, which had become too small to care for the growing congregation. The present rector has been in charge since 1894.

The new structure, although far from complete, has advanced far enough to permit services to be held. The occupation of the church will not interfere with the work which remains to be done. The Sunday school rooms have been finished for some time and the main auditorium lacks only the finishing touch of the decorator.

The building, which will be vacated to-night, is the third oldest Episcopal church in the city. The corner-stone was laid April 1, 1911. It was consecrated in 1859 by Rt. Rev. Richard Channing Moore, of New York, third bishop of Virginia. The church was originally planned to take care of the overflow from Monumental Church, which had become too small to care for the growing congregation. The present rector has been in charge since 1894.

The new structure, although far from complete, has advanced far enough to permit services to be held. The occupation of the church will not interfere with the work which remains to be done. The Sunday school rooms have been finished for some time and the main auditorium lacks only the finishing touch of the decorator.

The building, which will be vacated to-night, is the third oldest Episcopal church in the city. The corner-stone was laid April 1, 1911. It was consecrated in 1859 by Rt. Rev. Richard Channing Moore, of New York, third bishop of Virginia. The church was originally planned to take care of the overflow from Monumental Church, which had become too small to care for the growing congregation. The present rector has been in charge since 1894.

The new structure, although far from complete, has advanced far enough to permit services to be held. The occupation of the church will not interfere with the work which remains to be done. The Sunday school rooms have been finished for some time and the main auditorium lacks only the finishing touch of the decorator.

The building, which will be vacated to-night, is the third oldest Episcopal church in the city. The corner-stone was laid April 1, 1911. It was consecrated in 1859 by Rt. Rev. Richard Channing Moore, of New York, third bishop of Virginia. The church was originally planned to take care of the overflow from Monumental Church, which had become too small to care for the growing congregation. The present rector has been in charge since 1894.

The new structure, although far from complete, has advanced far enough to permit services to be held. The occupation of the church will not interfere with the work which remains to be done. The Sunday school rooms have been finished for some time and the main auditorium lacks only the finishing touch of the decorator.

The building, which will be vacated to-night, is the third oldest Episcopal church in the city. The corner-stone was laid April 1, 1911. It was consecrated in 1859 by Rt. Rev. Richard Channing Moore, of New York, third bishop of Virginia. The church was originally planned to take care of the overflow from Monumental Church, which had become too small to care for the growing congregation. The present rector has been in charge since 1894.

The new structure, although far from complete, has advanced far enough to permit services to be held. The occupation of the church will not interfere with the work which remains to be done. The Sunday school rooms have been finished for some time and the main auditorium lacks only the finishing touch of the decorator.

The building, which will be vacated to-night, is the third oldest Episcopal church in the city. The corner-stone was laid April 1, 1911. It was consecrated in 1859 by Rt. Rev. Richard Channing Moore, of New York, third bishop of Virginia. The church was originally planned to take care of the overflow from Monumental Church, which had become too small to care for the growing congregation. The present rector has been in charge since 1894.

The new structure, although far from complete, has advanced far enough to permit services to be held. The occupation of the church will not interfere with the work which remains to be done. The Sunday school rooms have been finished for some time and the main auditorium lacks only the finishing touch of the decorator.

The building, which will be vacated to-night, is the third oldest Episcopal church in the city. The corner-stone was laid April 1, 1911. It was consecrated in 1859 by Rt. Rev. Richard Channing Moore, of New York, third bishop of Virginia. The church was originally planned to take care of the overflow from Monumental Church, which had become too small to care for the growing congregation. The present rector has been in charge since 1894.

The new structure, although far from complete, has advanced far enough to permit services to be held. The occupation of the church will not interfere with the work which remains to be done. The Sunday school rooms have been finished for some time and the main auditorium lacks only the finishing touch of the decorator.

The Berry Man-Tailored Coats for Girls and Young Women

Just dandy, elegant and refined—just like the best custom tailor tries to do, yet the prices are very moderate!

The two styles shown here are to be had in dozens of shades and patterns, embracing the most popular weaves of the season—

Chinchillas, Blue Kerseys, Overcoatings in smooth and rough effects, Blue and White Serges.

Sizes, 6 to 20 years. Prices, $7.50 to $25.

Middy Suits, Sweaters, Peter Thompson Suits and Raincoats for Girls and Young Women.

C. H. Perry

LAST SERVICE IN ST. JAMES CHURCH

Third Oldest Episcopal House of Worship to Pass With To-Night's Sermon.

St. James Episcopal Church, for three-quarters of a century a stronghold of the faith in Richmond, will with the close of the services this afternoon, end its life as a house of worship, and will in a short time be torn down to make place for other buildings. The structure at Fifth and Marshall Streets has already been sold and will be dismantled by the new owners.

The Rev. William Meade Clark, D. D., the rector, will conduct the closing service in the old structure this afternoon at 5 o'clock. Communion will be administered at the morning services. Reference may be made to the era which will begin next Sunday with the occupation of the congregation's new church on West Franklin Street, opposite Richmond College.

The new structure, although far from complete, has advanced far enough to permit services to be held. The occupation of the church will not interfere with the work which remains to be done. The Sunday school rooms have been finished for some time and the main auditorium lacks only the finishing touch of the decorator.

The building, which will be vacated to-night, is the third oldest Episcopal church in the city. The corner-stone was laid April 1, 1911. It was consecrated in 1859 by Rt. Rev. Richard Channing Moore, of New York, third bishop of Virginia. The church was originally planned to take care of the overflow from Monumental Church, which had become too small to care for the growing congregation. The present rector has been in charge since 1894.

The new structure, although far from complete, has advanced far enough to permit services to be held. The occupation of the church will not interfere with the work which remains to be done. The Sunday school rooms have been finished for some time and the main auditorium lacks only the finishing touch of the decorator.

The building, which will be vacated to-night, is the third oldest Episcopal church in the city. The corner-stone was laid April 1, 1911. It was consecrated in 1859 by Rt. Rev. Richard Channing Moore, of New York, third bishop of Virginia. The church was originally planned to take care of the overflow from Monumental Church, which had become too small to care for the growing congregation. The present rector has been in charge since 1894.

The new structure, although far from complete, has advanced far enough to permit services to be held. The occupation of the church will not interfere with the work which remains to be done. The Sunday school rooms have been finished for some time and the main auditorium lacks only the finishing touch of the decorator.

The building, which will be vacated to-night, is the third oldest Episcopal church in the city. The corner-stone was laid April 1, 1911. It was consecrated in 1859 by Rt. Rev. Richard Channing Moore, of New York, third bishop of Virginia. The church was originally planned to take care of the overflow from Monumental Church, which had become too small to care for the growing congregation. The present rector has been in charge since 1894.

The new structure, although far from complete, has advanced far enough to permit services to be held. The occupation of the church will not interfere with the work which remains to be done. The Sunday school rooms have been finished for some time and the main auditorium lacks only the finishing touch of the decorator.